Video on Erin released by local filmmaker

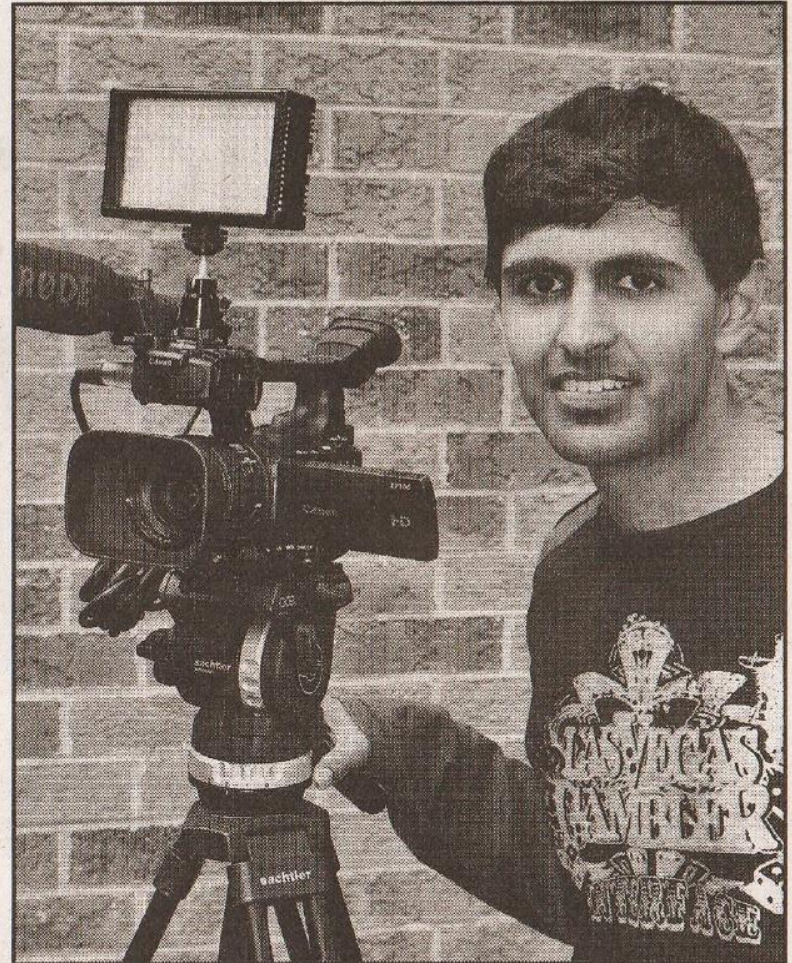

ERIN - Local videographer Julian Lamprecht has produced the first ever promotional video of the Town of Erin, My Little Town in the Hills, available on his website www.JulianLamprecht.com.

The video is his personal account of his hometown, shown throughout the seasons and featuring some of its many attractions, activities and events, as well as the picturesque rural and small-town scenery.

It features town crier Andrew Welch and many people and businesses of Erin. Lamprecht produced the video to promote Erin for both visitors and people who are interested in making the area their next home or business location.

Free downloading and sharing of the five-minute video is encouraged.

Lamprecht has produced a number of business and entertainment videos and offers his filmmaking services to businesses and organizations who wish to enhance and animate their website with educational and entertaining video clips.
